

The Unending Stream

Revd. Edward Omojevbe Eruteya

Ever-Flowing Grace Assembly

Grace is not a trickle reserved for a few. It is the river of God, flowing from the cross of Jesus Christ to every thirsty soul. Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters (Isaiah 55:1). This tract is an invitation: come, drink, and live.

Many try to earn what can only be received. They carry the weight of religion, the memory of failure, the fear that God is far. But the gospel is better news than that. While we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. The Son of God was lifted up, and from His wounded side mercy still flows.

If you will believe on the Lord Jesus Christ that He died for your sins and rose again you shall be saved. Not by works. Not by the strength of your resolve. By grace, through faith, as a gift. The door is open. The stream has not run dry.

Then, having received, give. Tell someone. Carry a tract. Pray for an outreach. Let the same grace that found you keep flowing through you, until the knowledge of the Lord covers the earth as the waters cover the sea.

Ever-Flowing Grace Assembly publishes this word so that the lost may find Christ, and the found may be strengthened. Read it. Share it. Be blessed and become a blessing.
